

Job Mobile Features Guide

Remote job entry via 3G or similar cellular data connection.

- Receive jobs from your service centre and create jobs while on site.
- Cost-effective solution to mobile jobbing.
- Add labour and materials while on site.

Technicians and engineers can receive jobs while on the road, create new jobs while on a customer site, and add materials and labour to a job on-site. They can then send completed job materials and labour back to the head office for invoicing.

The screenshot displays the Job Mobile application interface. On the left, there is a 'Jobs' list with columns for Order, Customer, and Description. Below it is a 'Settings' section with fields for Tablet ID, Employee, Warehouse, Location, and Server URL. The main area is titled 'New Job' and contains fields for Order Date, Customer, Description, and Purchase Order. Below these are 'Lines' and 'Issues' sections, each with a table of data.

Job Mobile synchronises customer, item, and job data. It provides an on-the-go interface to enter time and materials against a job. It can create new jobs when the tablet is out of 3G range, and then send them when it comes back into range. Job mobile works great with most 3G-enabled Windows tablets, netbooks, and laptops. Users logged in at the base can send new jobs to Job Mobile tablets.

Job Mobile ushers in a new age in the history of mobile job management - now jobbing can be conducted seamlessly in real time, ensuring that your central business information system stays in sync with the real world. Think jobs anywhere. Think Job Mobile.
